

New Forensic Accounting Service available at BMCC

Jarlath has successfully completed a Diploma in Forensic Accounting with Chartered Accountants Ireland in Dublin which has opened up a new area of service provided by the practice in Forensic Accounting.

What is a Forensic Account?

Forensic Accountants combine their accounting, auditing and investigative skills to analyse and interpret business and financial evidence.

Forensic deals with issues where facts, people and organisations do not agree or where financial or other business behaviour may not comply with expectations.

The provision of accounting advice, expertise and expert witness evidence is to assist in the resolution of disputes. This also assists in helping clients establish the fact, make recoveries and secure convictions.

Clients of Forensic Accountants

- § Solicitors, Barristers and other members of the legal profession acting on behalf of their clients.
- § Audit, taxation and other existing clients of an accountancy practice.
- § Multi-national companies who are required to be compliant with international legislation and internal international guidance in relation to employee, supplier and customer investigation.
- § Insurance companies and insurance loss adjusters in relation to complex insurance investigations.
